Appear

From the innards of the dark.

Dark...

Everything oppresses me.
I am truly alone.

Deep,
long shadow.

True:
I am alone.

Vast and dense cold.

Deep shadow.
Suddenly I move,
awaken.

I am truly alone.

I was long asleep within me.

Emerge to keep vigil,
move.

Yes, I was asleep within me.
I am truly alone.

Emerge,
ascend.

Suddenly I raise my head.
Emerge,
move.
Awaken.

But I am still alone.
Truly alone.

To Mito Sequera.

It suddenly ignites.
Shadow hides
and returns.
Shadow hides
and returns.

Radiance flashes, radiance.

And bathed in darkness,
fog falls as dew,
radiance and fog.
Fire licks itself
and crackles,
conversing with mist.

Now ñe'ẽ exists.
Mist crackles, converses.
Ñe'ẽ exists.
Now shadow shudders and disappears.
Shudders and disappears.

Poverty

In the valley.

Dream pattering soles,
vessel, full moon.

Stream...

nectar that oozes from fatiguing somnolence.

Voice of the sleeper,
the bones of the poor creak below.

Night

falls slowly.

Moon, milk mother, blankets the ground there.

Piercing whistle erupts goosebumps.

Moaning nightmares surface.

Chopombe

paces

out back.

Palm wall

sifts moon's wild honey.

The poor sleep
where the sierras cave in,
the poor sleep.
Under the pindó, a dog
and the poor person sleep.
